Praises Mokena-Frankfort Joint Land Use Program

A story outlining the joint land use program instituted by the plan commissions and village boards of Mokena and Frankfort and an editorial commending the communities for the action, appeared recently in a leading Chicago daily. It is the hope of community leaders that the publicity will attract light industry.

The editorial described the program as sensible planning and pointed out that such a thing has been rare in the suburbs. It said Mokena and Frankfort were wise to set aside large tracts for industry and endeavor to attract desirable industrial plants to locate there. It went on to urge county authorities who have power over the unincorporated sections to support the Mokena-Frankfort program.

A history of many suburban towns show them to be commuters' dormitories with all taxes resting on individuals. Industry is a necessity, it was pointed out, to give a community balance.

Some suburbs, without plans, have become hodgepodes with factories and commercial ventures taking over in residential areas while residences have been built in industrial areas.

City planners all agree that you can't mix industrial and residential areas and industry shies away from places where they may be subjected to pressure by residential areas.

Robert Geuther, Mokena, and Burton Breidert, Frankfort, chairmen of the planning commissions of the two villages, were pleased with the recognition given the communities for their efforts to build on firm economic foundations.

"We are as strong as the people," Mr. Breidert pointed out. "As long as we have their confidence and support we can hope to do a good job for the community as a whole."

Mr. Geuther believes representatives seeking locations for industry will come to look the situation over in the Mokena-Frankfort area.

"The only person who can set a price on land is the owner," Mr. Geuther said. "He is entitled to a realistic price but it shouldn't be so high as to keep buyers away from the territory. Utility firms and railroads have men who are of considerable experience in this field and they say while companies looking for plant sites are willing to pay substantial prices they expect the prices to be fair and decline to be imposed upon in such matters."

Mokena and Frankfort are believed to be the only communities in the state to have entered into a joint land use program.

Lemont, Tinley Festivals Mark Labor Day Week-End

Two festivals will be launched in the area this week-end and continue thru Labor Day-----Keepataw Days at Lemont and the Fall Festival at Tinley Park. Both are annual affairs.

At Lemont the big three-day event will open Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock. The midway there is on Main street and there will be booths, rides and games.

At Tinley Park a helicopter circling the village will loose 800 ping pong balls to launch the carnival at 7 o'clock Friday night. These balls are specially marked and will serve as tickets on various rides.

The Tinley festival, formerly held in Memorial park, will be held on the Bert Fulton school grounds this year. Preliminary judging of the annual beauty contest will get underway Friday night. Semi-finals will be held on Saturday night and final selection of the queen is scheduled for Sunday night. A Mr. and Miss Tinley will be selected from among teen club members Friday night and will reign over the festival.

On Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock there will be a big parade with floats, marching bands and organizations and a big display of fireworks Monday night will climax the festival. Stars of the WLS Barn Dance, wrestlers and other entertainment has been booked for the affair.

N. Lenox Lions To Build Home For Fire Victims

Members of the New Lenox Lions club are in the midst of an intensive fund raising campaign which, they plan, will result in the housing of a family whose possessions were recently destroyed by fire.

The Lions are seeking to raise $5,000 and to this end have planned a dance to be held at Goodings Grove Sept. 10, a week from this Saturday night.

The tickets are $1 each or $5 a book and the cover of the book will give the holder entry to the dance.

The beneficiaries of the effort will be Mr. and Mrs. William Sanderson, Golf road, and their 12 children. The couple has 14 offspring in all but two of them are married and have their own establishments.

The Sanderson home was burned to the ground, and all its contents lost, about a month ago. There was insurance but most of it went to meet the mortgage, it was said. Only a few hundred dollars remained.

The Lions of New Lenox plan to erect a 3-bedroom ranch type shell on the property, which is north of the Woodruff golf course in New Lenox township. They also plan to provide some of the inside material. The shell will include plumbing and wiring.

The contractors, James Skintotes, masonry, and George Yapp, general, will do the work at cost and the materials are being furnished at cost by the New Lenox Lumber Co.

With the house erected, the site, and the well, the Sandersons will have sufficient equity to make a mortgage possible to finish the home and this has also been arranged for thru the Lions.

Don Wennlund and Roy Pfeifer are the Lions members serving as co-chairmen of arrangements. There is little time left in which to dispose of the dance ticket but those in charge are confident of success.

Sanderson is employed by the Caterpillar Co. as a laborer. A large block of tickets have been taken by his fellow workers for sale at the plant.

Clear Way To Annex Tract At Frankfort

Annexation of a tract, containing at least two business properties and eight residential sites, to the village of Frankfort is practically assured and all that is required now is the drafting and passage of an ordinance.

The property owners are all agreed they want to come into the village and the village board members are ready to accept them.

Village Clerk Walter Pfaff was to have the legal description of the lands in the hands of Village Attorney A. H. Krusenmark today. So the property owners, who already have signed one petition for annexation will be required to sign again on this formal application and the village board expects to adopt the ordinance next Tuesday night. (Because Monday is a holiday the board will meet the next night, Sept. 6.)

The property is south of U.S. 30 along 95th ave. The residents there are particularly interested in getting sewer facilities.

It will cost approximately $3,500 to extend the mains to serve this area but the village can be expected to pay this off within a comparatively short time thru collections for service and sales tax. It was estimated that the sales tax will run at least $1,200 a year, village authorities were told.

Signers of the original petition, and those expected to sign the new instrument being prepared now, are: Walter Bell, Arthur Melcher, Donald Melcher, George J. Martin, J. Howard Bell, Mrs. J.N. Patterson, John Rackin, Raymond Eisenbrandt, Marion C. Bell, Everett Mersch and Jerry Hren.

Of this sum, according to the ordinance prepared by Attorney Raymond Hoolehan, $6,305 would be raised thru taxes and the balance, $2,665, would come from gifts, fees and other sources.

One of the items provided for is the salary for park supervisor and playground director -- $400. A thousand dollars is appropriated for wages and salaries in conjunction with the maintenance and improvement of parks; $1,500 for a shelter house; $1,500 for a tractor and accessories; $1,800 for possible land purchases; $150 for playground equipment; $150 for picnic tables; $400 for roads; $200 for repair of ball diamond.

Plan Measure To Govern Connections With Sewers

Work on the sanitary sewer system at Frankfort is drawing to a close and in another month it is expected the treatment plant will be in operation and householders can make their connections for sewer service.

Robert Hamilton, the engineer in charge, said this week that he expects the treatment plant will be completed by Oct. 1 and that connections with the sewer mains can be made after that date.

No connections will be permitted until the treatment plant is in operation, it was decided.

An ordinance covering some of the points involved may be drafted in time for consideration at an early meeting of the board; if not next week then as soon as possible.

One thing that all the trustees are agreed upon is that each property owner will have to make application for a permit to make connection with the sewer, Contractors will not be permitted to take out permits but it may be they will have to take out licenses.

The trustees are agreed that contractors must be bonded and carry sufficient public liability and property damage insurance. Details are being worked out by the sewer committee and the engineer. Lynn Kohlhausen, Milton Subbert and John Topp are members of the committee.

Property owners can dig the trench and install tiles on their own property but it is expected the village board will require that the actual connection with the main be done by a competent contractor. No one should be permitted to cut into a public street unless he has first put up sufficient bond, the board feels.

In case of the sewer the bond should also be sufficient to cover possible damage to the main in making the connection, it was said.

Refreshments were planned by Miss Yunker who was assisted by two advisors of the club, Mrs. Cote and Mrs. Page.

Urge Motorists To Use Caution In School Areas

With the approach of another school year, Gov. William G. Stratton has joined with J. J. Cavanagh, president of the Chicago Motor Club, in stressing the need for added alertness and responsibility on the part of all motorists in Illinois.

More than one million school children in Illinois will return to classes after Labor Day, and the officials urge drivers to exercise extreme caution when driving in the vicinity of schools.

In proclaiming the week of Sept. 6, "School's Open Week," Gov. Stratton reminded drivers that the excitement of returning to school is bound to make many of the youngsters forgetful of some of their safety habits. The governor's proclamation also pointed out that for many of the youngsters this will mark their first time at school, a situation which could make them careless when it comes to crossing streets and playing on the way to and from classes.

Cavanagh said that the safety of school children also depends a great deal on proper home education which stresses the responsibilities of pedestrians to youngsters. He added that parents should emphasize to their children that they should cross only at those intersections attended by School Safety Patrol members or an adult crossing guard.

The motor club president credited the School Safety Patrol with the saving of thousands of lives since the program was pioneered by the motor club in 1920.

As part of its annual school safety program, the motor club has mailed thousands of traffic safety posters to school and municipal officials in the Club's territory in Illinois.

This marks the 11th consecutive year in which the motor club and state and local officials have worked together in the "School's Open" safety program. Cavanagh said this cooperation has played a major role in reducing the number of traffic accidents involving school children.

LABOR DAY

Labor day, a legal holiday, will be observed Monday, Sept. 5. Labor Day should be for all of us a day of reflection. As we on Labor Day 1960 reflect upon the improvements in our living standards, thanks and honor should be given not only to those who by their toil have brought about these achievements, but also the leaders of organized labor and to those humanitarians who, by their leadership have fought for improvements in working and living conditions of our citizens. This year particularly in Illinois, we should honor Jane Addams, one of the greatest humanitarians of all time, for whom 1960 marks the 100th anniversary of her birth.

A native of New York City, Peter J. McGuire, who joined the ranks of American toilers while still a boy, became the father of Labor Day by proposing in May 1882 to the newly organized Central Labor Union of New York City, that one day of the year be set aside as a general holiday for the working people. As a result of his suggestion, the first Labor Day celebration was held Sept. 5, 1882, when the Central Labor Union held a parade in the streets of New York.

Two years later, delegates to the fourth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor recommended the observance of Labor Day by all wage earners. During the next few years, organized labor devoted its attention to getting state legislatures make Labor Day a legal holiday. Ultimately, after 31 states had proclaimed Labor Day a legal holiday, Congress in 1894 set aside the first Monday in September as Labor Day in the District of Columbia for government installations which is as far as Congress can go in such matters.

Bureaucrats Are Gaining

Elsewhere on this page is a letter addressed to the editor touching upon the subject of the Federal Interstate Aid, Highway 80, a new east-west route which is to pass north of Mokena and New Lenox on a slant out of Tinley Park. Plans call for the road to pass thru Joliet and link up with the piece that is being pushed eastward from the western part of the state.

The letter writer complains that no provision is made for entrance or exit to or from the new highway at Wolf road. He frankly admits he has a personal interest in the situation because he operates a motel near the point where Highway 80 will pass over, under or thru Wolf road.

We doubt that construction of a cloverleaf in the vicinity of 159th st. and Wolf road would be of any practical benefit to either Mokena or Orland Park. Roads like Highway 80 are not intended for local traffic.

The letter writer is quite flattering when he suggests this paper, as the voice of the people of the area, bring sufficient pressure to get the engineers to change their plans.

We might point out that the highway departments of state and federal governments are extremely bureaucratic and as far as the general public is concerned are practically pressure proof.

We might also point to the fact that 6,700 Joliet residents signed a petition protesting against the taking over of their homes to provide right-of-way for the proposed highway thru Joliet. They also hired a lawyer and were able to line up a couple of politicians to push their cause but apparently the politicians weren't heavy enough for the job.

Objectors to the highway plans not only made use of the public prints but also of radio in striving to bring sufficient pressure to change the route without success.

We have opposed the proposed route of the highway from the time it was announced as being too expensive and serving no practical purpose. The route, in our humble opinion, should have run southwest out of Tinley, thus eliminating costly crossings of the Rock Island railroad, Hickory creek, going thru the peat in the vicinity of Marley, and running thru Joliet.

Federal Interstate Aid Highway 80 is one of the roads planned in connection with defense of the United States. When such plans were first made it was figured that men and material could be hauled across the country to some military purpose but in the face of a nuclear attack such plans are out the window. There would be little likelihood of maintaining transportation as we know it. Atomic or hydrogen bomb blasts would not only wipe out cities and towns but vast stretches of highways as well.

Altho FIA 80 has been pushed into Will county from the west, the best information obtainable has it that it may be several years before it is extended to this section.

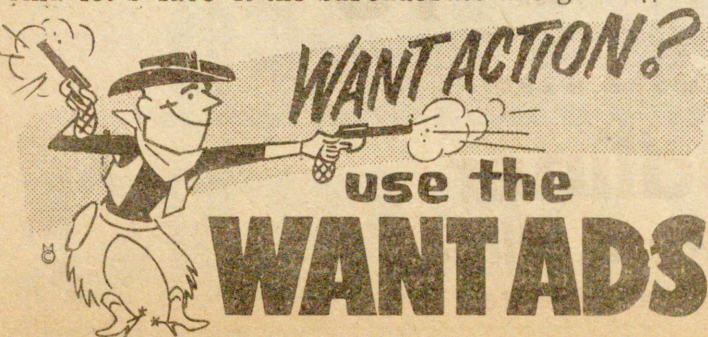

It is true that more or wider highways are needed to take care of future increase in cars, immediate and distant. It seems to us that the money allotted for some of the proposed super highways could be better spent in the interest of more people thru improvement of existing highways.

U. S. 30, for instance, certainly is in need of improvement. The road links the east and west coasts. In some states it is an excellent road but not in Illinois. Improvement of Route 30 would be of more benefit to the communities and residents of this area than FIA 80. Route 30 would serve the area; FIA 80 would not.

One of the officials of the Illinois tollway was in Joliet recently in the hope of stirring support for a proposal to make FIA 80 a part of the Illinois toll system.

Failing in that he left, making vague remarks about including Route 30 east of New Lenox into the toll system. Such a move would leave New Lenox, Mokena and Frankfort practically marooned unless residents dug down in their pockets everytime they used the road.

Don't say it couldn't happen because it is just such asinine programs that seem to appeal to bureaucrats. And let's face it the bureaucrats are gaining on us.

On Second Thot

By GLENN F. LOGAN

A Harvard (Ill.) paper carried a story recently that, if things ultimately work out as outlined, could set back education in Illinois to the time of Rogers and Clark. On second thought it might turn it back to the time when a war party of Iroquois treed the Illini on a rocky height and held them there until the place literally became Starved Rock.

It is believed best to go back to that time because as far as this department can ascertain there were no schools operating in Illinois then, altho the Illini probably would have been glad to have enrolled in a practical course in helicopter rescue tactics.

The threat from Harvard could easily create a situation where the staffs for schools would be all Indians and nary a chief.

The simple reason for this is that few persons could afford to hold an administrative post in a school system.

According to the news item the Harvard and Crystal Lake school districts are being sued for $750,000 by the parents of a boy who was injured while wrestling.

Of course, three quarters of a million dollars is a sizable sum and if the full amount was recovered one living outside the two districts probably would say, "Tsk, tsk, those property owners of Harvard and Crystal Lake are in for quite a touch," and let it go at that with never thought for the superintendents, or principals or other administrators.

But the lawyers for the school districts thought of them. According to this item the layers have expressed the opinion that the liability of the two districts is limited to $25,000 and any judgment over that would have to come out of the pockets of the administrators.

This department has no factual data available but it would hazard a guess that there are few school administrators in Illinois today that could write a check for $725,000 and not have it bounce just a little bit.

If a court ever brought in a judgment against school administrators for injuries suffered by pupils at play on, or about, school property, or enroute to, and from, school, then one could expect unguided schools with every teacher making his own rules.

One thing about such a situation -- Johnny would darned well learn to read and in a hurry too. School rooms probably would have whacking big posters set up on each wall; grounds would be posted and report cards carry the same notation:

"NOT RESPONSIBLE FOR COATS, HATS OR ACCIDENTS."

It is conceivable that if a judgment is entered against the Harvard and Crystal Lake school administrator an epidemic of accidents will keep the state.

Just imagine what could happen if in the course of a rousing game of bean bag a bag broke and the beans went flying. And where do you suppose they would fly? Why right up the nose and deep into the ears of all the youngsters within a radius of 25 feet.

One such incident could easily result in 20 law suits.

A lad hit with a snowball could have a frozen ear that would require long and expensive treatment to save it.

If the Harvard and Crystal Lake school attorneys are right the only thing left for administrators to do is to insist upon an insurance policy that would cover them for a judgment AND attorney fees in the event parents or guardians of their young charges bring personal injury suits against the district.

Letters To The Editor

WANTS CLOVERLEAF

Dear Sir:

It is my understanding that the new Highway #80 will go around Joliet to the south and will by-pass Mokena to the north. Furthermore, I understand that no entrance or exit will be provided at Wolf road.

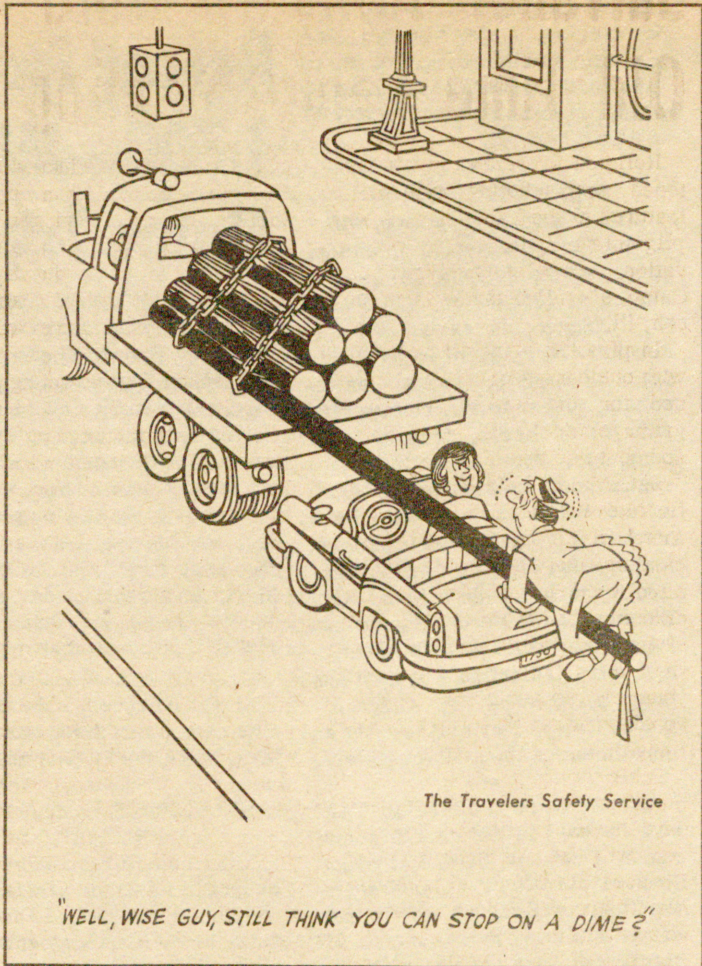

No entrance or exit at Wolf road, will have much to do with restricting residential growth in and on the West side of Mokena. I say this because this highway will tie in with Calumet expressway and thus those suburban communities that have proper access to the highway are sure to benefit.

I am bringing this to your attention because I feel that your paper as the voice of the people, should take the initiative and get the highway commission to change their plans to include access to the highway at Wolf Road. This should be done now before it's too late. Naturally, I have a personal interest in this matter because my Motel is on Wolf Road; but I feel that Mokena should also be vitally interested.

Would greatly appreciate re-

WILLIAM F. WHITESIDE

Cook County Assoc. Farm Adviser
Tinley Park - Ke 2-4374

Congratulations to the new 4-H club king and queen, Jim Bussema and Linda Johnson. They are from the Glenwood Acres and the Sauk Trail Str and Stith 4-H clubs. These clubs are led by Henry Veld-huizen Sr., and Mrs. Carl Johnson, respectively. I am sure that Jim and Linda would agree that a lot of credit for their success would go to their 4-H club leader and to their parents.

There were ten grand championship trophies and a dairy showmanship plaque awarded at the 4-H Fair. These awards were won by members whose projects showed highest quality on the day of the fair. These winners are to be congratulated for the time and effort spent in attaining the excellence necessary in project work to win such a significant honor. These trophies were won by ten individuals and there were roughly 240 other 4-H'ers showing projects of high quality also. These people should also be congratulated for their efforts and given encouragement to continue doing their best in 4-H club work. As far as the county extension staff and the 4-H leaders are concerned, these youngsters are all of blue ribbon quality regardless of the type of ribbon given to their project, and when it comes right down to it, the boys and girls are the most important in our 4-H club program.

On behalf of the 4-H members in southern Cook County, I would like to thank all of those people who volunteered time, merchandise and good ideas to help make the 4-H Fair a success. These are all vital ingredients to a successful 4-H Fair. Thanks again.

Robert Wille, son of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Wille, was one of the high scorers in our recent health activity, the Keeping-Fit Field Day. By virtue of his high score, Robert is one of the representatives of our county at the Illinois Sports Festival.

Tom Hieronymus, Ag Economist at the University of Illinois has estimated that Illinois soybean growers will average between $1.95 and $2.00 a bushel for their 1960 crop. This estimate is based on value of soybean oil and meal, the foreign situation and a peek in crystal ball.

state yield forecast in early August was 26 bushels an acre, 2 percent less than a year before.

Prices of beef cattle are lower than they were a year ago, and they have been lower all this year. So far prices for fat cattle have averaged nearly $2.00 a hundred pounds below 1959. Farmers who bought feeder cattle early last fall, before prices dropped, may make less profit than they did in 1959. Farmers who bought after the decline may do as well as last year, or better.

Recent prices of feeder calves are off $6.00 to $8.00 a hundred pounds from year-before levels. This decline will cut sharply into the incomes of the considerable number of Illinois farmers who produce calves for sale.

The dairy situation has not changed much. In some markets prices are a little better than they were last year. The better pastures this year have been a big help on dairy farms in central and southern Illinois.

Outlook For Farmers In Illinois

BY L. H. SIMERL
(Dept. of Ag. Economics)

The farm situation in Illinois has improved in several ways since last year.

Our pastures are much better. In the summer of 1959 pastures in central and southern Illinois were, in official terminology, very poor to severe drought. Pasture conditions this summer were listed as good to excellent all over the state except in a few counties in the southern part along the Mississippi river. The condition of pastures makes a lot of difference in the incomes of dairy and beef-cattle men.

Our wheat yields were much better this year than in 1959. The official estimate is 29 bushels an acre, 14 percent more than last year.

Oat yields showed an even greater increase. The state average for 1960 is listed at 51 bushels an acre, up 27 percent from 1959. Quality was unusually good this year.

Hog prices have improved substantially this year, whereas they were going down in 1959. Recent prices exceeded 1959 prices by about $2.00 a hundred pounds. Prices are almost sure to be much higher in the last half of this year than last year. Illinois farmers will gain some extra benefit from the price rise, since they apparently did not cut production so much as farmers in most other states.

This year also has some darker aspects for Illinois farmers. The most important one is the corn prospect. It is especially poor in western Illinois, or west of the Illinois river. The state corn yield is officially forecast at 63 bushels, 6 percent less than last year. But many farmers in eastern Illinois and in the southern half of the state have better corn than they had a year ago.

The soybean prospect is not quite so good as it was a year ago. Poorer conditions in the north and west more than offset the better prospect in the south. The official ceiving your reaction in this respect.

Yours very truly,
H. G. Heller

Business & Finance

BY MAURICE P. ANGLAND

Popular news sources have long been giving a business index as the percentage of capacity at which the steel mills are operating each week.

The American Iron & Steel Institute has tried to discontinue the practice of giving out such percentages of capacity, but the practice continues. Reason may be that such percentage figures are easy to secure and are easily stated without lengthy explanations.

Steel men point out that if the mills operate at 75 per cent of the present capacity of about 150 million tons that the mills are using almost all of their capacity except the obsolete and high cost facilities.

In 1955, record year, output went up to 117 million tons and total capacity was 126 million tons or an operation percentage of 93 per cent.

Due to increased labor costs, competition from other metals and materials, steel firms have been making determined efforts to install the most modern equipment. A number of mills can show a profit at 50 per cent of capacity and output of in excess of 75 per cent, brings less efficient and high cost units into production. Altho not of popular appeal in competition with developments in chemicals, electronics, etc., the steel industry has large research projects seeking to devise new methods to produce cheaper and better steel products. Some of the smaller units which have not kept pace with these developments, have lost their competitive position.

Building of steel producing units is very expensive with most such developments individually designed for particular uses and location. For this reason, the well managed plant is usually expected to have about 25 per cent of capacity available for peak demands. Increased labor costs have forced increased automation.

ELECTRONICS
The electronics field has been the sensation of the investment market for the past few years. Sales in this industry are reported as having quadrupled since 1950.

The August issue of Fortune carries a study of the industry and their concept of the industry's immediate future. The article points out that the industry growth for the past decade has been at the rate of 15 per cent per year compounded or three and one half times as fast as all industrial growth. The analyst expresses belief that the next decade is not likely to exceed more than 9 per cent per year and some predict the rate at about 4 per cent which is a little below the rate projected for all industrial production.

Defense demands and resultant research brought developments that have application in non-military fields. However, urgent military demands for research far greater than possible in normal civilian applications.

The article states that about 75 per cent of all engineers and scientists employed in the electronic industry, are working on defense projects.

The efforts of some of the air frame firms to diversify into electronics, has further stiffened competition for defense contracts. As a result, some of industry firms are actively trying to get a larger percentage of civilian business where contract cancellation is not an ever present hazard.

The magazine Electronics states that the industrial market has demonstrated greater potential for publicity than sales growth.

Sales have increased substantially, but not at the rate often forecast.

The National Safety Council figures there is an accidental death every six minutes in the United States.

Annual Convention Soil Conservationists Study Goals

BY LOREN SASS
About 200 conservationists, representing 99 soil conservation districts in Illinois met at the Orlando Hotel in Decatur on Aug. 23 for their three-day annual convention. Joint sessions were held for the annual meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of the State Association. Attending from South Cook County were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Siemson of Tinley Park. Mr. Siemson is president of the Soil Conservation District of South Cook. Will county was represented by Mr. and Mrs. Loren Sass. Mr. Sass is president of the Will county board and Mrs. Sass is president of the Upper Illinois Valley, Council 3 of the Ladies Auxiliary.

Dorsey Kirk, master of the Illinois Grange, was the keynote speaker, reviewing accomplishments of the soil conservation districts and recommending future goals. He stated that our principal task today is to educate 93% of the population on the importance of conservation so that 7% can assure them an adequate food supply 40 years from now. Government surveys are hinting that if we, the people, can't do a voluntary job of water control and management in the near future, it will be forced upon us.

Willard Gates, chairman of the association's soil stewardship committee, reported on the expenses and programs undertaken by county chapters, and he also presided during a soil stewardship service. Rev. Clark, pastor of the Church of Christ in Decatur, was the speaker on soil stewardship. He reminded the group that farmers do not own their land, but that they are stewards of it. God created the world and everything there on and then God created man to care for it. How we care for our soil and water determines the future of mankind.

The Good Year Awards for best conservation practices during the year, were presented to Edwards county in the northern part of the state and to Mason county in the southern section of the state. This honor allows two members from each winning county to be guests of the Good Year Tire and Rubber Co. at their 20,000 acre farm and resort in Arizona for two weeks with all expenses paid.

Reading, writing, arithmetic and conservation will be the basic courses of our schools in the future according to Dr. B. K. Barton of the Illinois Division of conservation education.

Dr. Barton advocated the formation of local education committees to see that conservation does become a part of the basic education curriculum.

Speakers at a panel on state and national conservation programs included: Bruce Clark, state conservationist for the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, Dean L. B. Howard of the soil extension service at the University of Illinois, Leslie W. Heiser, superintendent of the state division of soil conservation, E. D. Nuuttila, state forester, Thomas Evans, superintendent of the division of game management, William Haith, superintendent of the division of fisheries, and Gentry D. Adams, chairman of the Illinois Agricultural Stabilization and conservation committee.

The climax of the convention was the banquet which was held on Wednesday evening. The speaker was Gladwin Young, deputy administrator, Soil Conservation Service, U. S. Dept. of Ag. in Washington, D. C. He stated: "Conservation to my estimation is the most important job of our nation today. To say this during a time of surpluses doesn't sound logical, but are you paying heed to our exploding population and the conditions of other parts of the world."

He added that by 1980 our population would increase sufficiently to demand 50% more production and by 2000, it would demand 100% more in agricultural production. To do this we will need to use every possible source of advancement to its utmost, because our productive land is now nearly all being used. To increase production now, will take advanced technical knowledge and irrigation.

During a session of the legislative department, members voted to support a $550,000 state appropriation for conservation programs. This would be in addition to the $170,694 in conservation funds budgeted for the 1961-62 fiscal year. The money would be included in the Illinois Department of Agriculture's budget and supervised by the state division of soil conservation. This would mean that the individual district soil conservation offices would have to provide the money and then certify the amount for reimbursement from state funds, according to Bill Brown.

Brown, of the department of natural resources of the Illinois Agricultural Assn., spoke on areas of legislative concern following proposal.

The money would not be used to support the soil conservation district's staff, who work on a volunteer basis, according to E.

T. Franklin, Franklin, a member of the association's legislative committee, pointed out that the money would be used to finance the actual conservation projects.

Brown, in his talk, cited three areas of concern:

1. Reclamation of open-cut strip mining areas.

2. A state water law to define the rights of usage because of the shortage of water for farming and manufacturing purposes.

3. Revision of the soil conservation district's names to include "soil and water".

Brown also outlined the procedures for the association's districts to cooperate with city, county water conservation and watershed organizations under the Illinois Soil Conservation District Law.

Following Brown's talk Franklin outlined proposed changes to the soil conservation district constitution. The new by-laws call for the de-centralized control to place responsibility on area vice-presidents, according to Franklin. Previously the work load has fallen on the organization's president and secretary.

Richard Grob of Reddick, Ill., was re-elected president of the state association and Angus Stuart was re-elected Secretary. Edward J. Meagher of DeKalb was elected vice-president.

Mrs. Dorsey Kirk, of Oblong, Ill., was elected president of the Ladies Auxiliary of the State Association of Soil Conservation Districts.

Child's Vision

To Be Checked

At Four Years

A child's vision should be examined before he enters kindergarten, says James Molenaar, O.D., executive secretary of the Illinois Optometric Association.

In a statement to parents of youngsters about to go to school for the first time, he explains:

"A baby starts learning to see long before he learns to talk. He may develop bad seeing habits, just as he might start to lisp—but these may go unnoticed without professional examination."

With equipment available today, he said, optometrists can perform a vision examination on a child as young as 16 weeks.

"Normally, however, age four is early enough for the first such examination and analysis," he said, "or at least before kindergarten."

This year, the Association's membership is giving special emphasis to pre-school vision checks in an effort to reduce the ratio (now estimated at four out of 10) of school children with undetected visual problems.

7th Graders To Continue French At L-W Thru Winter

The summer session of the French course given seventh graders at Lincoln-Way high school has ended but it is not finished. The youngsters will continue to study French two days a week thru the winter at the end of their regular school day.

The youngsters like the course and when they enter high school will be placed in a special class as they will have gone beyond the beginners' class, it was stated.

Twenty-five youngsters were enrolled in the class this summer which was taught by Mrs. Betty Morrison, French teacher at Lincoln-Way.

The recordings used in the language laboratory set up at Lincoln-Way were of great assistance in teaching the course. Class members use earphones to listen to tapes and these, it was said, are excellent guides to pronunciation and accent.

Frankfort Asks O. K. On Arterial Sts.

A resolution has been adopted by the Frankfort village board designating Maple, Locust and Pacific as arterial highways and a copy forwarded to the district state highway engineer's office at Elgin.

The village hopes to get approval by the state on this choice of streets to the end that Frankfort can meet their maintenance from motor fuel tax funds.

The Superior Match company plant, Frankfort's new industry, has brought an increase of traffic to Locust and Maple streets, it was pointed out and an accompanying breakdown of the streets. The village has appealed to the plant several times for aid in street improvements but without success, trustees have reported.

A resolution also was adopted approving expenditure of $570 on maintenance of Maple street. Possibly next Tuesday there will be a resolution to approve expenditures for construction work to be done on Locust and Kansas street, Kansas street, incidentally, is to be opened thru to White and the action will add a considerable number of parking places.

Summit Hill Registration Sept. 6; Election Saturday

Charles Rellis, new principal of the Summit Hill school, Dist. #161 announces registration for the pupils will be held Tuesday, Sept. 6 at the present school on 191st street starting at 9 a.m. It is anticipated that the new school building will be ready for classes within a few weeks.

A special school election is to be held this Saturday, Sept. 3, for the purpose to increase the educational tax fund rate from 75 cents per $100 of equalized assessed valuation to 96 cents. The voters will receive another ballot for the approval of a $35,000 bond issue to provide a new school building.

Approval of both propositions is sought by the directors of the district that they may meet an enrollment this fall that is expected to almost triple that of last year. Approximately half of this number will be drawn from families moving into Arbury Hills, a new housing development in the building along U. S. 45 south of 191st street. The remainder will come from other portions of the district, outside the development.

The developers of Arbury Hills are erecting an eight-room school at a cost of approximately $150,000 and feel that inasmuch as two roomfuls of pupils will come from outside the subdivision it would only be fair for the district to put up money for two rooms which could be added to the new building. When the school is completed it is to be given to the school district, the developers stated.

Clark Bennett New Frankfort Bldg. Inspector

Clark Bennett, a Frankfort carpenter, has been named building inspector of that village to succeed the late Leroy Hansen. The appointment was made at a special meeting of the village board Monday night by Mayor George Sangmeister and confirmed by the trustees.

A pick-up in building which is anticipated in the community is expected to keep the new inspector operating extra hours.

Applications for permits, accompanied by building plans are to be filed at the village hall.

Kindergarten To Open In Mokena Monday, Oct. 3

The kindergarten which the Mokena Women's club plans to open Monday, Oct. 3 will be held in the Fellowship room of the Mokena Methodist church. The adjacent park with the playground equipment and the room previously used by the first grade of the public school, furnishes an ideal place for the kindergarten, states the committee in charge.

May Scheer Leaves Estate Of $19,750

Mrs. May Scheer, late of Frankfort, who died Aug. 2, left an estate of $19,750, according to records in the office of Probate Clerk E. B. Workman where her will has been filed for probate. All but $1,000 of the estate is in realty.

According to the will Stanley Johnson, Frankfort, and Milton Holl, Joliet, sons-in-law, are each bequeathed $5,000, and $200 is left to St. Peter's church, Frankfort, as a memorial for her late husband, Charles, and herself.

The residue of the estate goes to her two daughters, Mrs. Marie Johnson, of Frankfort, and Mrs. Florence Holl, of Joliet.

The will, which was signed Feb. 20, 1957, names both daughters as co-executrices. Gordon Bedford is attorney for the estate.

Fabricating Plant Unwelcome At New Lenox

Opposition to zoning a site along U. S. 30 east of New Lenox to permit heavy industry caused the petitioners, Chester and Henry Kirsten to drop their request when the Will county zoning board of appeals met in the New Lenox depot Aug. 24.

Plans for the site called for erection of a steel fabricating plant between the Wabash and Rock Island tracks. There were many objectors to this proposed classification of the property.

The plant is now said to be in Aurora but is moving because some of its land has been condemned to make way for a highway project. The place is said to employ approximately 800 persons but the objectors feel there would be more disadvantages than advantages in having such an industry in the area.

There was talk that perhaps the plant owners might be persuaded to take another location but according to information available the plant had two other localities in mind and would not come to New Lenox area.

Take Survey Of Rural Roads In "Hazard Hunt"

Farm Bureau women of Will County this past week launched a county-wide "hazard hunt" of rural cross roads in the 1960 "clear corners for safety" campaign at a kick-off meeting held recently in the Woodruff hotel. Farm Bureau Women's Committee chairman, Mrs. David Wandless and Gene Malone, secretary of organization, outlined a program whereby one woman from each township was appointed by the Farm Bureau Board. This will single out the cross roads in the township which needs the most attention to make it safe. In the Frankfort township area the following cross roads were chosen that were considered hazardous; LaPorte and School House roads; Wolf road and 191st street; Rt. 45 and 191st street and St. Francis road and Rt. 45. A report meeting was held Tuesday in Joliet, at which time the ladies pointed out the cross roads on a map and a tour of the dangerous corners will be taken in the near future to see what can be done about the obstructions.

Four Billion Candlepower Illuminates Niagara Falls

Each of the 20 powerful carbon arc floodlights used to illuminate Niagara Falls produces some 210,000,000 candlepower and generates a temperature of over 5,000 degrees Fahrenheit. To protect the carbon-feeding mechanism from the direct heat of the arc, the arc shields are made of Inconel nickel-chromium alloy.

Bicycle Safety Program Being Set Up For Mokena

Plans are completed for the program aimed at making bicycle riding safer for Mokena's young cyclists. The program set for Sept. 17 at the Carpenter Street school under the direction of the News Bulletin and the Mokena Police Department.

In announcing the program, Ralph Hacker director of public safety, said, "The steady rise in motor traffic on our streets and highways is making the use of bicycles increasingly hazardous for young and unskilled riders. In addition, lack of skill and disregard of safety precautions are responsible for numerous injuries to riders where motor traffic is not a contributing factor."

The Commonwealth Edison -- Public Service Company system next month will launch the most intensive major electric appliance campaign in its history. The utility, which has traditionally featured seasonal single-appliance drives, this fall will exploit the total electric trend with a four-in-one promotion. Electric ranges, clothes dryers, water heaters and all-electric kitchens will share billing in the electric company advertisements. Some 200 newspapers will be used to advertise the attractions of modern "flameless" electric appliances. In support of dealers throughout its 11,000 square mile service area, the electric company will extend its low-cost wiring installation plan for all three appliances in a single-family dwelling. Dealer sales of free-standing electric ranges and electric dryers will be backed by the utility's "satisfaction or money-back" guarantee.
